

HORSES COMING FROM EVERYWHERE

$9,500 for Purses at the Fair Grounds—Richard Dwyer, Who Will Have Charge of the Race Program, Will Be Here Next Week—Greatest Race Meet Ever Held in Utah Predicted.

That the citizens of Ogden and visitors to the Four State Fair will be treated to the greatest race meeting ever seen in the state of Utah is now an assured fact.

Horsemen from all over the continent have signified their intention of being present. The California racing season opening so soon after the Four State Fair makes this possible, as nearly all owners heading for San Francisco will stop over for the meet given at the Ogden fair grounds.

Dr. Rowe, the enterprising and energetic president of the Four State Fair, has labored unceasingly to make this the greatest of all Utah fairs. That his efforts will be crowned with success goes without saying.

Meanwhile the officials of the Ogden Racing association who have charge of the racing end of the program have not been idle by any means. The track has been put in first class condition. A new paddock, jockey and scales room have been built, and many other improvements for the benefit of the public made. They have issued the program of races for the first eight days, showing an amount aggregating $9,500 in purses for races only.

Manager Richard Dwyer, who is at present starting at Anaconda, Mont.

will reach here a week before the opening day and will take up his duties at once.

Applications for stabling are pouring in from all quarters of the continent, and the management are at their wits' ends to provide accommodations for all that wish to ship here.

With the close of two important meetings, Denver and Anaconda, on Saturday next all the principal stables racing at those points will ship direct to the fair grounds. It is estimated that there will be in the neighborhood of four hundred and fifty horses quartered at the fair grounds and surrounding available stables by Wednesday week.

In former racing seasons the great majority of horses racing here were of the cheap selling variety, and in consequence the racing was of very ordinary caliber. This season, however, the class of horses competing will be so immeasurably superior that it would be useless to attempt a comparison.

From now on Ogden will be the magnet that will attract the lover of the thoroughbred from all parts of the United States, and it is a safe prediction that when the Four State Fair throws open its gates on Sept. 23 an enormous crowd will be on hand.

ALL-STAR COUNTY BALL TEAM LOSES

"Lobsters" Defeat "Farmers" in a Swift Game by Score of 6 to 0.

In Today's Game, Morgan the Crack Pitcher Will Do Slab Work for Locals.

The Ogden state league team, under Gimlin's captaincy, yesterday took the first game of the series from the All-Star county team, piling up a score of 6 to 0.

Red Toner's teasers were too much for the semi-professionals, they only connecting for one safe single, and fanning the atmosphere nine times.

The game was a fast one, and the players showed considerable ginger in spots, making the exhibition an interesting one.

The feature of the game was the hitting of Morgan, who batted a thousand per cent, making four clean hits one of them a triple.

The All-Stars pulled off a pretty double in the fourth spasm that brought them the applause of the crowd.

Deemer got some difficult fouls out on the race track and got under a real high one near the old stand.

Poulson caught a nice game, and our old friend Snooks played a champion game. The All-Stars tried to take liberties with him in the way of stealing the second station, but he nailed them all as well as Johnny Kling might have done.

A good crowd enjoyed the game. The inability of the All-Stars to connect with Toner's delivery explains their defeat.

Today the same teams will play their second game, and Morgan, who pitched a two-hit game against the Salt Lake aggregation at Brigham City, will be in the box for the All-Stars, and it is expected that the game will be a close and interesting contest.

The score follows:

Ogden.	R.	H.	P.	A.	E.
Plaice, ss	3	2	3	3	2

LABOR FEDERATION CALLS CONVENTION

Labor Unions Will Meet in Salt Lake City, September 14th and 15th.

Will Adopt Important Resolutions for the People Who Toil.

The Utah State Federation of Labor at its convention at Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 12 to 13, will decide to take more interest in the coming state election than has ever been taken before.

Mr. Theo. Gjerse, secretary and treasurer of the Utah State Federation of Labor, has issued the official call for the convention, in which he strongly indicates the necessity of state laws for the protection of the wage earners.

It is considered that the mechanics' lien law on real property in Utah does not give much protection to the mechanic against the dishonest property holder. An efficient shop and factory inspection law will also be considered, also that this state should have some sort of an employers' liability or compulsory insurance law, whereby all those whose work or occupation carries any risk of life or limbs should be provided for in case of accident.

Now one who follows hazardous employment to earn the livelihood for himself and family, and through some cause happens to be killed or injured, his family and neighbors are made to suffer, and in cases where a man who does honest but hazardous work loses an arm or leg and can no longer earn his daily bread, he is made a beggar and an object of pity and shame unto society. These are the points and facts that will be fully considered by the convention.

Mr. John M. Marshall, who is a delegate to the convention, will present that body with a copy of the mechanics' lien law of the state of Michigan. Mr. Marshall, being familiar with the efficiency of the mechanics' lien law of Michigan, believes that the copy will be of some assistance to the legislative committee of the federation.

The question of patronage of home industries will also come in for its share of consideration. Both Mr. Gjerse and Mr. Marshall are strong advocates among organized labor, of "Utah made goods for Utah citizens."

It is characteristic of union men to encourage home industries not only because the wages earned in the home factories are put into circulation among the consumers, but also because the consumers have the privilege of inspecting and supervising the factories of their home city or state.

It is a well known fact among the better informed union men that things of every day use which are made in the sweat shops and under unclean conditions in the large cities, and in many instances by persons of ill health or afflicted with contagious diseases, carry those contagions to the consumer.

The American Federation of Labor for some time past has been making a series of investigations and chemical analyses along these lines; and the union men maintain that they have sufficient evidence of authority to prove that garments or articles of clothing, cigars and such, if made under unclean conditions, or by diseased persons, will, in most cases, carry the germs of the disease to the consumer.

The Cigar Makers' International union is one of the strongest labor organizations in the world, and it is claimed that its growth and strength is due to the fact that the union cigar makers do strongly insist on clean factory conditions; and they will not permit one of their members who is sick to work in the factory, but will pay him out of work or sick benefits or send him to a hospital.

The public in general has come to realize that the "blue label" of the Cigar Makers' International union, when placed across the front of a box, is a guarantee that the cigars therein contained were made under clean and healthful conditions, and unless the "blue label," that guarantee of the Cigar Makers' International union, does appear on the cigar box, there is no way of telling whether the cigar one smokes is made by a white man in good health and under clean conditions or whether it was made in a family living room in a large city under bad conditions or by a diseased Chinaman or Filipino.

But if they men will only learn to smoke cigars that are made in our own city or state they will not only have the benefit of the circulation of the wages earned, but can visit the home cigar factories and see for themselves how and under what conditions and by whom the cigars they smoke are made, and then have something to say about it.

A fire broke out in a house, owned by R. W. Cathers, in West Ogden late last night, and owing to the lack of sufficient water to fight the flames, burned completely to the ground. The firemen, and the entire fire department of Ogden City, stood by and watched the burning furnace rage the house to the ground. A boy sleeping up stairs as caretaker, lit an old lamp which exploded while he went out in the rear to get some water. On his return the house was a mass of flames.

The house has been uninhabited for some time, so that loss was not great. The flames were discovered by a neighbor, and the Ogden fire department was quickly notified. In the meantime a bucket brigade was formed, but the fire gained such headway that the heat prevented these efforts. The house was a light frame affair, and burned like so much tinder, lighting up the country for blocks around, and drawing over two hundred people from Ogden and West Ogden.

When the fire apparatus from this side of the viaduct arrived they found that there was no water, and were compelled to allow the house to burn. The chemical was brought into service, and used upon the residence of Joe Wheelwright in the rear and on the Sisson place next door, preventing a possible spread of the conflagration.

After burning for about an hour, the Cathers place was nothing but a smoldering mass of embers, completely wiped out.

While crossing the viaduct, one of the pumping engines of the fire department collapsed, as the result of loosening of the supports of the rear axle, and the engine boiler dropped to the street, sweeping away the grate, and temporarily putting the machine out of service. It was quickly raised up, however, and could have been used, had there been any water to pump.

The loss attending the burning of Cathers' house will not reach $1,000.

NEWSBOYS ENGAGE IN CUTTING AFFRAY

Youngsters Prevented from Doing Serious Injury by Deputy Sheriff Devine.

Two newsboys, neither over 7 years of age, engaged in a real cutting affray last night, and a result are tonight sleeping under the roof of Deputy Sheriff Devine, who took the youngsters in charge, to keep them out of further mischief.

One lad, named Halshaw, stole a potato knife which was on display in front of a store on Washington avenue, and the other boy, named Johns, endeavored to take it away. A scuffle ensued, and Johns received a cut in the hand. He was taken in charge by Mr. Devine who happened by at an opportune moment, and taken to Badcon's drug store where his injuries were treated.

Both boys were then taken by the deputy sheriff to his home, where they will remain until tomorrow when they will probably be turned over to the juvenile court.

Young Halshaw is the little fellow who makes his sales of papers by working the "crying" game on prospective customers. He approached his man, and begins to cry, asking "Won't you please buy my last paper?" and he usually got away with a sale.

LOCAL FREIGHT TRAFFIC HEAVY

During Month of August the Local Shipments Largest in History.

Traveling Freight Agent P. H. Cook of the Harriman lines stated yesterday that the month of August showed the largest local shipment of merchandise in the history of the railway company.

He estimates that the increase in the local traffic for the month just passed will reach 30 per cent over that of one year ago.

"At present the traffic on the Harriman lines at this point is exceedingly heavy," said Mr. Cook. "The sugar beet shipments have just started and we are expecting quite a heavy movement of beets, although it will not be as large as last year. We are bringing into Ogden several car loads of empty fruit cars every day for use at the canning factories. Our shipments from Ogden into Idaho are enormous. Today we will send 135 tons of merchandise from Ogden to Idaho towns. This shows that the local jobbers and wholesalers are doing an extensive business in Idaho."

Mr. Cook states that in some respects the future is not so bright for general traffic on the railroads as the live stock shipments will be light this year owing to the high price of products. This will affect the movement of cattle and sheep.

PICKLE FACTORY BEGINS CAMPAIGN

Rose Preserving Company Start Their Big Wall Avenue Plant.

The Utah Pickle & Vinegar company, under the new firm name of the Rose Preserving company, have begun their fall pickling campaign and are anticipating a very successful season.

The plant, which is located on Wall avenue between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, has been entirely remodeled during the summer and nearly $10,000 expended on improvements. The new firm, which purchased the plant last May, have their offices at present in Salt Lake City, but contemplate moving to Ogden within a short time. The officers of the company are: J. C. Rose, president; George W. Goddard, vice president; Ed Lichter, secretary, and C. W. Trish, treasurer.

A complete vinegar plant has been installed and acetic acid is being manufactured from pure corn meal in great quantities. There is a large still for the making of alcohol, and fifty generating tanks for the converting of alcohol into vinegar. The first step in the manufacture of vinegar is the fermentation of the grain in huge tanks in the cellar. After the mixture is fermented it goes to the still and the alcohol is extracted by distillation. Next the alcohol, which is of low per cent, is transferred to the generating tanks, where further fermentation converts the alcohol into vinegar.

The plant will this year handle 30,000 bushels of cucumbers, 12 car loads of cabbage, 10 tons of onions and two car loads of cauliflower. This will be the largest output that the plant has ever attempted.

RECEPTION.

A wedding reception to forty guests was given Wednesday evening at the Bachelor home, Thirty-third and Ogden avenue, in honor of Mary B. Batchelor and William R. Eckhardt, who were married in the Salt Lake temple Wednesday morning. The bride was charmingly gowned in a creation of white lace and the groom was in full evening dress.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a huge umbrella of lavender chrysanthemums with streamers of lavender ribbon extending to the corners of the big parlor was suspended from the ceiling in the sitting room. The same arrangement, with a combination of lavender and white, prevailed in the dining room, pink and white chrysanthemums and smilax adding to the attractiveness of the scene. The table, with its centerpiece, an immense wedding cake with wedding bell decoration, a profusion of cut flowers, festooned the room.

The people of Willard are pleased to have Mr. Taylor again in their midst. He will enter again into business there.
